

FARA guidelines on Conflict of Interest for grant reviewers

You must decline an invitation to review a grant application if:

1. You are named on the application in a scientific role (e.g., investigator, collaborator, mentor) or have provided a letter of collaboration/support/reference;
2. You are from the same institution as the PI or co-investigators on the application;
3. You have an ongoing or recently completed (within the past 3 years) collaboration with the PI or a co-investigator on the application;
4. You would benefit financially if the application were funded.

If you are concerned about a possible COI, for example a situation that could give the appearance of a COI, please email grants@curefa.org